

I think it would be really cool to be able to make your own rollercoaster and show people that I created it. I've watched lots of videos about homemade rollercoasters. My favorite is a roller coaster that was made in Fort Wayne, IN by a welder. It was one of the first rollercoasters with a loop-de-loop that was homemade. It was called the Blue Flash. I would like to one day build one at home. It would be a type of alpine coaster made out of a half pipe. These are kind of dangerous to have but they look really fun. I would also like to be an Imagineer and go to Disney World to help work on all the rides.
